Dear Sirs: At a regular monthly business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Bloomfield, held Sept 7th, resolutions were passed taking notice and expressing approbation of the recent action of your honorable body, in your efforts to reduce the number of saloons in our town by means of higher license.

Thirteenth Regiment Reunion The reunion of the 13th Regiment of New Jersey, took place on Wednesday at Eagle Rock. The veterans began to assemble at twelve o'clock, and the greetings between these old comrades was good to see, as they gave one another the hearty hand-shake, speaking with the happiness and freedom of school-boys, although the fact was evident with but a few exceptions, that the elements had been toying with the hair of these old soldiers, as one of the speech-makers observed later on, at the banquet.

The veterans numbered about ninety. The first assembly took place at half af ter one, the regular business meeting, during which the ladies adjourned to the grounds adjoining the pavilion for the purpose of organizing a regimental should this portion be removed? With our American oyster there is no occasion to remove it, and we never do it." No doubt many a new housekeeper has felt guilty of omitting to do something that should be done when she served her busband oysters with their "beards" on. She felt doubly guilty when he praised them and declared they were the best oysters he had ever eaten. Probably she kept the secret until she consulted some old housekeeper, who promptly told her she didn't know what the beard of an oyster was, and that certainly no one nowadays ever removes it. This expression is generally found in old English works of the order of the Complete British Housewife. It is probable that this portion of the oysters of Great Britain is especially tinctured with their coppery flavor and was for-merly removed. Certainly no one today

Adam Knew the Flood Was Coming. An apocryphal book called the "Lesser Genesis" and well known to the early Christian fathers tells a wonderson of Adam and Eve. When the goodly Seth was about 40 years of age, he was "rapt" up into heaven by a trio of angels and there told and shown what was in store for mankind. Among other things, the coming of the great deluge was made known to him, as was also the coming of the Saviour. When he returned to earth, Seth told his parents what had happened and of what he had seen and heard concerning the future of the human race. "And Adam was much grieved when it was made known to him that the world would be destroyed by water on account of the wickedness of his own children, but a great peace and calmness came over him when Seth told how the face of the earth would again be repeopled. * * * His joy was exceedingly great when Seth related what was in store in the

A colonel advanced toward a young lieutenant, who bore on his breast as sole decoration a large badge richly set with diamonds. "Tell me, young man," he said, "what is that thing you have got there?" "It is an order, my colonel," replied the lieunel. "It is not Prussian, then, for I don't know it." It is an English order, my colonel," responded the juvenile officer. "Ah, indeed," said his superior, "who, for goodness' sake, could have given you such an order?" "My grandmother, queen of England," answered the young lieutenant, who was none other than

Prince Albert of Sleswick-Holstein. The colonel suddenly disappeared. Where Hotel Men Draw a Line.

The bloodhound was enjoying a stroll with his master on the sands of Westonsuper-Mare, quietly following the horse his owner rode. Neither was thinking of a chase. In fact nothing seemed further from the character of the dog than a desire to interfere with any human being. The group of pleasure seekers scattered over the sands saw nothing nnusual in him, nor did the poor distracted woman who ran from one group to another frantically asking for tidings of a lost child. Nobody knew anything of the missing boy, and when in her desperation she approached the gentleman on the horse he also shook his head.

But though he knew nothing of her boy, he was not so sure that he could not help her find him. He alighted from his horse, and thrusting his arm through American Watches. the bridle bent over the hound, putting both hands carelessly round his head. Then he took from the woman something that looked like a child's hat and held it toward the dog, talking to him the while. The hound sniffed and whined mournfully, as if unwilling to leave his master. Soon, however, he lifted his head in the air, uttered a short, sharp bark or bay and began sniffing about the

For a minute or two he followed the scent in a zigzag fashion, and then, with a long, loud bay, turned off at an amazing pace, ran in a straight line across the sands, crossed the parade, and, baying as he went, turned down a That was an exciting chase—the field

NATURE'S CYCLE PATH.

The Sandy Shore of Lake Erte Is Admira bly Fitted For Wheeling. Most of us at one time or another have basked for awhile upon some sandy beach of ocean or lake. We have bathed in the surf, gathered shells upon the shore, and thus whiled away many idle hours, but it was reserved for the bicycle to make us really acquainted with those stretches of beach and shore which seem to have been purposely prepared by kind Mother Nature as a glorious cycle path. Whether or not she originally intended it for wheels, she certainly spends a great deal of her time in keeping the path in repair, and those active servants of hers, wind and wave, rain and sun, are kept very busy at work upon it all the time.

This long and varied path stretches in its entirety hundreds of miles along our ocean shores and around the borders of our great lakes, but the particular bit with which we became familiar during happy summer weeks, and to share in whose delights I would tempt others, is a comparatively small portion on the southern shore of Lake Erie. It begins with the extreme end of Cedar point, which with its long arm holds in a portion of Sandusky bay, and extends eastward 15 miles or more up the shore. This sandy shore continues all the way to Cleveland and beyond, but because of some intervening piles of rock one cannot ride the whole 50 or 60 miles. The shorter distance is, however, enough for a summer day's ride, especially if one takes it comfortably and leisurely and appropriates to himself the countless joys spread before him. - Grace
